

Stewardship Contracting Information Database
Version 2
Opening SCID

SCID is accessed using the Internet Explorer browser only. It cannot be accessed using Netscape or any other browser. The following web address shown at the bottom of the page accesses the live database for SCID. However for this training we're going to be asking you to use the training database. The training database can be accessed through the link at that KRC. The KRC, or the Knowledge Resource Center, is accessed through the BLM homepage. Once in the Knowledge Resource Center type in SCID 2.0 to access the training and at the bottom of the page there will be a link to the SCID training database.

Once you get into the live or the training database, the first screen you are going to get is going to be the screen shown here and you're going to want to click on Continue To This Website Not Recommended. This has to do with the BLM security settings they've got for Internet Explorer and it's a frustrating page but it comes up. After you click on continue to this website, you will get the server login screen and in there you'll enter your username and password as you regularly use your computer accessing your system.

Now that we've seen how to open SCID, let's take a look at the database itself.